Background

Two Moors are a trusted independent finance broker offering flexible asset finance solutions tailored to individual business needs. They work across a range of sectors including property, marine and aviation, agricultural and forestry, renewables and business asset finance. They were looking for an IT Partner who were experts in cyber security.

Situation

“Having attended Bluegrass Group’s cyber security events over a number of years, I knew that they weren’t just your typical IT supplier; they were clearly passionate about the importance of educating businesses on how to protect their business from ever growing cyber-crime threats. Although I have a good understanding of IT myself and of some protection measures, I knew I needed to work with experts who knew this stuff inside out. It’s absolutely critical that my systems, data and devices are secured sufficiently because of the nature of what I do. I hold confidential data for clients to support applications on their behalf and so I have a responsibility to them to ensure that I do all I can to keep that information safe and secure.

Bluegrass Group were a natural choice for me, not only were they local, well established and experts in cyber security; they offered flexible solutions that met my individual needs.”
